In Meeting at Caney Fork

Rev. James F. Price is in a meeting at Caney Fork, in Butler county. This is an original Presbyterian church nearly one hundred year old. The interest was good last week, with two professions, but the continuous rain has interfered with the last few days' services.

Mr. Price will preach at Frankces the fourth Sunday in October and then go to Louisville to attend the synod.

New Powers 6 A Machine.

The Marion opera house has received and installed a magnificent, newest and latest improved motion picture machine which will now enable the management to put on the best movies produced anywhere in this country. Mr. and Mrs. Frisbre deserve much credit, as well as the patronage and encouragement of the public, for the enterprise they have shown in equipping Marion's opera house with electric piano, electric oscillating fans, and now a new and latest model picture machine controlled by a General Electric Compens arc. Splendid films Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights of each week.

To A Citizen.

Your article advocating Judge Kevil for Mayor strikes a keynote in another way. Judge Kevil—like any candidate—wants an endorsement, which he deserves and further than that if we are to have water works, he is the best equipped man for the Mayor's office in Marion. The laying of water pipes is an engineering feat which requires the over sight of an expert in civil engineering, and Judge Kevil knows all the details from A to Z and would safeguard the city's interests in a way that would make him worth his year's salary in one week, besides there are many legal phases to all the city's business, requiring the services of a lawyer, almost daily at the head of the city's government.
